Customer Reviews

Another great volume of violin play-alongs from Hal Leonard. Mostly first position with a little or more third position depending on the song (one stretch to E6 as well.) These are new arrangements of well known worship favorites. The violin carries more of the load than the simple, traditional melodies, which themselves undergo modification. This volume pleasantly surprises because the performing musicians put much, much more effort into the finished tracks than simply playing out of a dusty hymnal (the violin parts are not readily separable from the backing tracks, either). My first run through these songs found nice little surprises musically that I truly did not expect. The featured violinist demonstrates really sweet tone and ample vibrato throughout. The backing arrangements are well thought out and evoke shades of decades not too distant past. The recordings are professional, and pretty and sweet. This volume may present a challenge for beginners (and opportunity to learn). It's another fun collection and reflects the overall diversity of offerings comprising the entire Hal Leonard violin play-along series. Highly recommended!
